Mike and Dave, it will probably be easier to go ahead and do an EQEDD format. I've attached samples to those, which are downloaded directly from the Earth Soft website. I would really only need the LabSample_v1 and the TestResultQC_v1 sheets. There will be a few things that you do not know, like Sys_loc_code, but I can fill that out as long as you have the data that correspond with the Form 1s you've already sent me. Angie Brown has sent me stuff like this before in the past if you need additional detail, she might be able to help.

I've also attached a copy of our reference values. Please let me know if you have any questions. Thanks!

Erin:

I'm not sure how to respond to the lab (see below). Do you want me to tell them it is Equis format or to use the exact format you sent me in the Excel file?

Thanks,

Mike

See IT response below.

Scott

We don't have that particular format - it looks a bit like LAB_MN and a bit like EQUIS, but not the same. A lot of the fields match, but not all of them.

Producing and output that is compatible with an empty Excel table is dangerous. There are no indications of valid value requirements, and required fields etc. I could spend hours generating this format only to find that it isn't what they need. I need an EDD format name and preferably some specifications. Otherwise the best I can do is to guess at field formatting and contents (and which ones are actually required, etc.) with the risk that we send something that's of no use to the client and we'd need to do over - and I don't have the time to do something twice due to lack of specifications. Even an EDD format name might be more helpful than this.

Do we have an EDD that matches the attached?

>>> Sherri Rosenstangle 8/24/2016 3:28 PM >>>

Scott-

Mike wants to know if we have anything similar to attached.

Sherri:

Can you produce the EDDs using the example given by EPA?

Thanks,

Mike

Mike, these aren't in the right format. I've attached an example .xlsx for you. If you send this to Pace, they should be able to produce a LIMs output that is compatible to this. Please let me know if you have any questions. Thanks!
